

Dear Friends:

The high holy day prayer book, traditionally called a machzor, is an age-old compendium of prayers and readings. These texts have guided our people for generations. The machzor is indeed a sacred document, cataloging the yearnings of countless Jews who, like us, navigated uncertain times. As our services will be virtual this year, we wanted you to be able to pick up your own prayer book in order to follow along with services from home. This way we will be united, even from a distance.

Please plan to come to the synagogue lobby circle between September 14 – September 17. Please be sure to wear a mask. Each household will be allotted up to 2 prayer book sets. Large print editions will be available for those who need. We will also have limited delivery available.

I wanted you to be aware that you can also choose to keep this set of prayer books in perpetuity in exchange for a $72 gift to the congregation. This way they would be yours to use during the holy day season as well as refer to throughout the year, a treasure to have in your home and, perhaps, hand down to future generations. During these trying times, the synagogue needs your support and this is one way to be of help. Please indicate your intention below.

Rabbi Benjamin David
